EUROPE SUFFERS FROM FOREST FIRES AND FEARS PLAGUE

HUGE FIRES SWEEP THROUGH FORESTS OF NORTHERN ENG-LAND DESTROYING WOODS

HOLLAND, GERMANY, SWEDEN &
AUSTRIA ALSO SUFFER—
FEAR CROP LOSS

(By United Press)

London, July 25—All Europe suffered today from a drought which brought with it forest fires, crop shortage and threat of plagues.

Huge fires swept through the forests in northern Britain and cut a swathe ten miles wide in Aberdeenshire, destroying not only the woods, but threatened many famous estates.

It was feared that the harvest this year would fall far below the average. Wheat suffered especially. In only a few sections light rain fell but it was not sufficient to have any effect on the general situation. Holland also suffered from forest fires. Conflagrations raged today in the provinces of Druethe and Lemberg. All the crops were threatened. German scientists were experimenting with dry farming but with little hope of benefiting the present crop.

Sweden suffered with Germany. Russia was regarded as the most dangerous spot. Epidemics of cholera and typhus were breaking out. Spain's crop wilted in the fields.

Italy was the victim of forest fires, caused by the drought. One such fire started near Trieste where a powder house blew up scattering the flames into the dry underbrush.

(By United Press)

Washington, July 25—Drastic changes in the naval building program are provided for in a bill introduced in the senate today by Senator King of Utah, one of the chief opponents of the $400,000,000 naval appropriation bills.

Work upon the battleships South Dakota, Indiana, Montana, North Carolina, Iowa and Massachusetts would be discontinued as well as on the cruiser ranger Constitution, and the United States, under the bill.

The bill directs that the battle cruisers Saratoga, Lexington and Constellation be converted into air-plane carriers and make the money appropriated for battleships, the construction of which would be stopped, available for that purpose.

The measure also directs the secretary of the navy to immediately make contracts for construction of four fleet submarines, the construction of which has been authorized.

FORCE PREMIER TO MAKE PUBLIC THE IRISH TERMS

HOUSE OF COMMONS MEMBERS
PLAN TO MAKE PREMIER
MAKE DETAILS KNOWN

(United Press)

London, July 25—Secrecy of the Irish peace negotiations was threatened today. Influential members of the house of commons, plan to force Premier Lloyd George to give the details of the offer which President DeValera is now submitting to Sinn Fein leaders in Dublin. The commissioners were actuated by several motives.

First of these was nervousness over the nature of the guarantee to Ulster. Another strong motive was Ulster's desire to take part in the history-making conference. The house has played a leading role in the coal strike negotiations and other important matters and desires to continue its show of strength.

Instigators of the commons found sufficient support to make it certain that Lloyd George will be forced to give some sort of explanation as to the secret negotiations. The premier was believed to face the necessity of some action to offset a revolt being fomented by the Morning Post, which has continued to denounce Lloyd George's conferences with the Sinn Fein as "a surrender to the murder gang."

Several prominent unionists already have withdrawn in the Lloyd George coalition in protest against the negotiations.

HENRY FORD BACKS HARDING'S DISAR- MAMENT PROGRAM

WILL ASSIST THE PRESIDENT
WITH ALL HIS RESOURCES SE-
CURING DISARMAMENT

(By United Press)

Washington, July 23—Henry Ford is solidly behind President Harding's disarmament program.

The automobile manufacturer plans to assist the president in removing the cause of war with every resource at his command.

This developed in a formal talk between the two during the week-end camping expedition in the Maryland hills.

Mr. Ford outlined disarmament in an exclusive interview with the United Press during a quiet hour at the camp.

Munition makers and international bankers, Ford believes, are trying to keep the war game alive. His plan is to turn the spotlight of publicity upon them and bring public opinion to bear down on anyone who plans to obstruct the disarmament program.

The munition makers are responsible for German armament to the teeth, Ford said. Now they are trying to do the same with Japan. With Germany gone they are trying to find another reason for keeping up war and at present are trying to use Japan as an excuse.

Whistle Governs Wall Street.

In the country town everybody goes by the factory whistle. One doesn't see many clocks in Wall street or any factories with whistles to guide the 'boys' during lunch hour, but there's a building being torn down. And every wrecking crew is assisted by a dummy steam engine. Well, you see the wreckers lay off work at noon for lunch, and so do a majority of the Wall Streeters. "SAFETY AND SERVICE"

That Word "Hospital."

One of the features of an ancient Roman home were the "hospitalia," or apartments set aside for strangers, or "hospes." Hence, in its original meaning the word "hospital" was applied to places where strangers were received and kindly entertained. The commonly restricted use of the term to designate places where sick strangers were received was an after development.

The word came to us directly from the French, who got it from the Romans. It is derived, of course, from the same root as "hospitable." The name "Hospitaler" was borne with pride by several semi-religious and semi-military orders, like the Knights of St. John or the Knights of Malta, who made it a business to relieve the poor, the strangers and the sick.

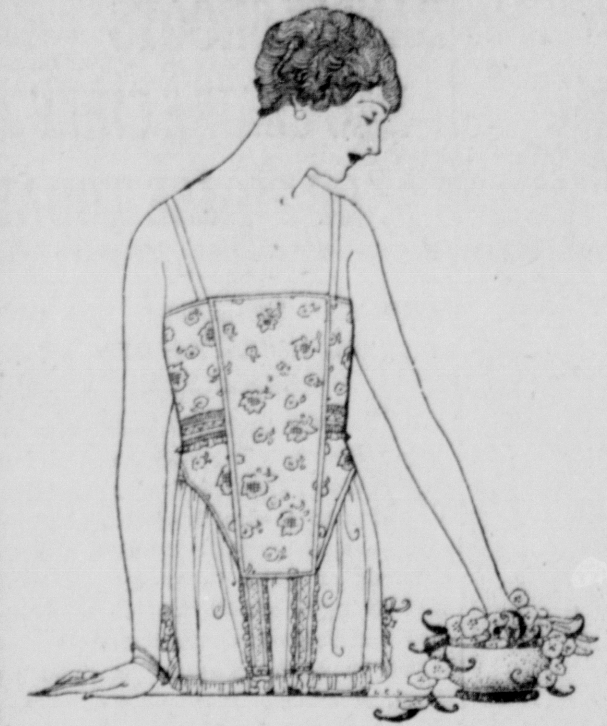

It is worth noting that the first "hospital" for diseased men and animals was established by the Buddhists in Hindustan.

A young Greek, whose home is in Athens, was a visitor to the capitol, and after making the rounds of the different apartments and viewing the beauties of the nave he said he had seen all the finest buildings in his native country, but none of them could compare with Kentucky's capitol for beauty and elegance of construction.—Frankfort State Journal.

METHODIST CHURCH CAMP MEETING SOON

Rev. Dr. E. T. Adams, Presiding Elder of St. Louis District, to Speak in Brainerd

IS A POWERFUL EVANGELIST

Camp Meeting Sessions Open on July 28 and Will Draw from 100 Mile Radius

Rev. Dr. E. T. Adams, who will be the evangelist at the coming camp meeting of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The Central Minnesota camp meeting of the Methodist Episcopal church which will comprise a contributing territory with a radius of one hundred miles will begin its second annual camp meeting July 28th in the First Methodist church of Brainerd. This camp meeting is young but is looking forward to becoming a great factor in the spiritual life of Central Minnesota. Assurances have already been received of people coming from distances of 75 miles away. The evangelist this year will be the Rev. Dr. E. T. Adams, one of the powerful speakers and forceful organizers of religious campaigns.

The following is what others say of him:

Rev. C. M. Hawkins, D. D., Presid-

der; and his presence in any community is a benediction." Editor of "The Fair Grove Times" says:

"Rev. Adams is a powerful preacher, wielding the keen sword of the Spirit with an effectiveness not witnessed here for many a day, if ever. He forces people to work whether they want to or not, and they like him for it."

E. O. Rice, president of the Minnesota Pentecostal Association will also be with us and have general charge of the camp meeting. Mr. Rice is a business man who has had a marked career in the business world, but surrendered his opportunities in that direction to go into the greater work of the Kingdom of God.

Mrs. E. O. Rice will be present and have charge of the music. Those who remember her from next year remember what a wonderfully sweet singer she is and how she won the hearts of all who knew her by her pleasant personality.

The meetings will begin on Thursday evening of this week and continue over Sunday, August 7 with services at 2:30 each afternoon and 7:30 in the evenings. There will be three services on Sunday, the first one at 10 o'clock in the morning. These meetings will be full of reli-

Summertime Sets the Scenes

SUMMERTIME sets many lovely scenes as backgrounds for the summer girl, or anyone else who takes these backgrounds into consideration when choosing her frocks. For most of us, practical clothes for this workaday world in which we find ourselves are as important at least as those that are decorative, and it happens that the gingham, chambray, percales and other dependable cottons that make our frocks for work have attractions equal to those that make the dresses of our leisure hours. Special designers plan these dresses on lines that prove as charming as any others.

But the business of living requires us to have frocks for play and leisure, and summer brings with it the crisp, diaphanous stuffs that belong to it alone. Organdie and dotted swiss have their day under the skies of summer, and she is wise who makes the most of it. These materials come in the most exquisite and flower-like colorings and in white that looks as cool as snow; they are within the means of everyone and the easiest to make up neatly. The pretty models, as shown in the picture, are very simply designed and very successful. The plain organdie at the left is shown in white but looks well in any color, and especially so in the popular shades as peach, jade, orchid, pale pink, blue or canary. Although many organdie and swiss dresses combine two colors, or a color and white, this dress uses only one. It has a straight skirt with wide tucks, a plain waist with tucked vestee, and an ample fichu-collared. The sleeves are elbow length and the girdle is made of organdie.

Many kinds of flowers are made of organdie and used for trimmings on frocks of this material. Peach-colored organdie, in a tucked frock with bodice cut in kimono style, has flat roses in different colors set about its round neck, and makes a wonderful background for them.

Snowy white dots on a blue ground, in the swiss dress at the right, make one think of snowflakes against a dark blue sky and looks cool and crisp as possible. It has a white organdie collar and vestee, short sleeves with double cuffs of organdie bound with dotted swiss and a blue ribbon sash. A few sprays of foliage embroidered in the tunic in white wool finish off a little dress that is equal to almost any summertime function.

Clemenceau Won the War; At Least He Says He Did

(By United Press)
Paris, July 25.—The question of who won the war has been decided finally, according to the newspaper Leclair.

Printing an interview with former Premier Clemenceau the paper quoted him as saying:

"America does not understand by what terrific efforts I won the war. I had to fight three battles, the first against the Boches, the second against the divided allies and the third against the French chamber which had lost hope. But I won."

Isn't it Strange? Somehow or other the man who snores the loudest always seems to go to sleep first in a Pullman car.

Experience, the Great Teacher.

Observation more than books, experience rather than persons, are the prime educators. Books aid as one has wit to use them to advantage, persons most when seeming not to serve us. Experience converts us to ourselves when books fail us, and this oftentimes against our knowledge and consent. And it remains questionable how far our attainments further or hinder nature's intentions, the art of education being still so complicated and incalculable a matter that not a few of the most striking characters have been formed, untrammeled by our schools, under the more direct and potent influence of life and things, operating under the pressure of necessity and seeming accident.—A. Bronson Alcott.

Bible vs. Newspaper.

The following statements as to the relative value of the Bible and the Sunday paper, were made by a Kansas city clergyman: The great appeal in all good newspapers is in their style of makeup. Their stories are brief and well told. But no literature can be compared with the Bible. There are no stories so well or briefly told as those in the Bible. The Bible tells the true facts. It is impartial. And it will be used as an example of true literature as long as we have a civilization, while some newspapers are inclined to color their news and try to mold public sentiment into their way of thinking.

COMMITTEE

Of Chamber of Commerce This Evening Considering Plan for Continuous Solicitation

SECRETARY GETTING MEMBERS

Reports to be Made on Present Dues Paying Membership Recorded by the Chamber

The membership committee of the Chamber of Commerce holds an important meeting this evening at the Chamber, set for 8 o'clock. Reports will be prepared to present to the Chamber at the next regular meeting this Wednesday evening, July 28th.

Figures are being compiled showing the present dues paying membership. Methods will be devised for continuous solicitation of new members. The secretary, O. J. Bouma, will be able to instill in his co-workers the proper spirit, for he never preaches what he does not practice himself and as a sample that members can be secured in the hottest weather, the bulletin boards displays three he secured, while he has prospects of soon adding eight more.

The membership committee consists of W. E. Haydon, chairman, and these committee men, Art L. Koop, G. W. Chadbourne, A. A. Gieriet, A. P. Drogseth, James Graham, A. A. Arnold, B. E. Dunham, Carl Wright and R. J. Tinkelpaugh.

As evidence of new ideas permeating the Chamber, it is reported there is a wave of sentiment in effect that useless timber on any committees is to be docked. The idea is that members who have been attached to committees cannot hold their jobs if they never attend meetings, never take an active part in affairs, never make a report, never consider business entrusted to them.

The days of "honorary" committeemen are about over. The "active" ones are to get due credit for what is being done.

Egg Dance Once Popular in Europe.

The egg dance, now confined chiefly to Spain, among the people of Valencia, was a once popular diversion in England, Scotland, Holland and other parts of Europe. A number of eggs were arranged in a prescribed form upon the dancing floor, and among them a blind-folded dancer moved as best he might, to music, the object being to execute an intricate dance without breaking the eggs. The music, like the arrangement of the eggs, also was prescribed.

English Needle Industry.

English needles were first made at Long Crendon, Oxfordshire, and afterward at Redditch, while their manufacture was still in the main a home industry, different stages being completed in the cottages of the workers, who were generally women. Then came machinery; fortunes were made—sometimes lost—in the needle trade as in every other industry.

Milwaukee Girl Claims Millions of Girard Estate

(By United Press)

Milwaukee, Wis., July 25.—Miss Susan Shabach, who claims to be heiress to the millions of Stephen Girard, Philadelphia slave trader of the last century, prefers to hang onto her job as telephone operator at the Blatz hotel here until she gets the money. "I am not counting my chickens before they are hatched," she told the United Press.

"If I win I will have millions but it is time enough to plan on spending the money after I get it. Of course, I like automobiles, and no doubt will buy one. But say, I am not going to say a word until I get that money."

Fred Gravelle, attorney for Miss Shabach, left today for Philadelphia to make a formal claim to the Girard millions.

The claim is involved in a court judgment claim by Dominique Girard in 1853. His death immediately after-

THE BUILDING INDUSTRY

The report of the Hoover committee of elimination of waste in industries of the American engineering council just made public, is well worth the attention of every thoughtful person. The report as just made public deals with the building industry, the activities which are of such vital importance to the American public at this time. It shows that waste, unemployment, accidents, high cost of construction and a score of other evils are causing losses in the building industry of this country running into billions of dollars. These are all economic losses, that it is our duty to eliminate as much as possible.

The elimination of waste and inefficiency and other economic losses is the duty of every well organized civilized community. In fact, the success of any community in so doing is one of the true tests of the extent of its civilization. This report shows that half a billion dollars a year in wages is being lost through irregular employment, and that accidents cost the building industry 120 million dollars a year. There is also a heavy loss through duplication of estimates, designs and bidding. Strikes cause a waste of three million working days a year. All interests brought together in the building industry are blamed for this waste. There is both inefficient management and wasteful labor regulations. The committee goes on to state that conditions are being bettered in that the associated builders and the labor unions interested in this branch of industry have recognized these losses in waste and are seeking to correct them.

In every industry a serious condition of this kind is of importance to the public but at this time in the building industry it is necessary that these conditions be remedied. All communities throughout the United States and, indeed, in other parts of the world are today suffering from the lack of adequate housing facilities. Regardless of the reduction in the cost of building material and also in the price of labor engaged in the building industry, rents are practically as high as ever. While the high rents may not be justified in all instances the demand does exceed the supply and the inevitable result is high rentals.

HOME OWNING COMMUNITY BEST.

It is not a good thing for any community to have any considerable portion of its population living in rented houses or apartments but inversely stated it is of great benefit to any community to have the great majority of its population a home owning population. While home owners may differ in their ideas, whether it be in politics or religion or in any other way where there may be diversity of opinion, any home owner is in the final analysis a conservative in governmental matters, using the word conservative in its best sense. Any home owner when called upon to finally decide will advocate security in government, will favor law and order and will give real study and real thought to the ultimate outcome and result of the various extravagant theories of government that are so often advanced and demanded by those who have nothing to lose and possibly something to gain.

In any community where a large majority of the inhabitants are home owners there will be prosperity, there will be carefulness in city management and in the expenditures of public moneys, there will be a steady and even flow of business for every home owner learns to love the home and to want to improve it and its surroundings as far as possible.

While Brainerd is a city in which a large majority of the people live in homes that are owned by the occupant nevertheless everything should be done to increase home owning here. There is an opportunity in Brainerd for those who have the interest of the city at heart to devise an honest, thoroughgoing and efficient system for financing the construction and the acquisition of homes. Such a plan would probably have to be worked out through a building and loan association but it must be worked out so as to be fair to all parties involved in the transaction and so that the financial stability of such an association would be assured. Here is an opportunity for service to Brainerd.

THE MOTLEY TRAGEDY

(Motley Mercury)
There seems to be a good many differences of opinion and conflicting ideas coming from outside of Motley and especially from our neighboring town, Staples, in regard to the tragedy that occurred at Motley a few days ago.

Sentiment at Motley is ninety per cent one way, however. Everybody regrets that a life was lost, but our people are placing the blame where it rightfully belongs. The man who lost his life paid the penalty for his own sins. He was one of a party of four who planned and carried out a most frightful outrage upon peaceful and innocent citizens, and who ran amuck the law. Those who went to arrest the gang of four desperate men were expected to perform their duty and had the authority to enforce the law at any cost. The situation was desperate and desperate means were resorted to.

We, who were on the ground, are better able to judge the right and wrong of this affair than those who are expressing opinions from untrue stories that are being circulated by a few who, perhaps, believe in outlawry, crime and disorder, and who are in sympathy with the men who are responsible for the terrible outrage. The people of Motley know that the few who are telling these stories, and especially one of these men, do not know how to tell the truth, and persons to whom they are talking should know them well enough to know this.

Our citizens are going to demand that the law be enforced to the limit and that the remaining members of the gang be punished to the fullest extent of the law. They brought the trouble upon themselves and are deserving of no sympathy. They are equally responsible with their brother for his death and let them pay the penalty.

On the other hand, our citizens are united and will stand back of those whose duty it was to enforce the law. They tried to enforce the law and must be upheld. Our officers are held blameless and they will be upheld and protected to the last ditch.

CLEANED AND CLEANED!

Last Sunday a large number of pillager people enjoyed the day picnicking at Rocky Point where the Game & Fish convention was being held. During the afternoon several of the local boys hired a tent in which to change their clothes, and went in swimming. After a good cleaning in the lake they repaired to their tent and found they had been cleaned a second time. Some blankety blank rascal had gone through their clothes and took everything of value. Edwin Holmgren lost several dollars in cash besides a watch valued at $40; the Herald editor lost a small watch which he had carried all three France and valued very highly as a keepsake, together with a French gold piece and a small amount of change. Harold Dorsey lost about $4.50; Leslie Fisk several dollars and others various amounts.

HIGH HOTEL RATES

The general public will most heartily agree with W. A. Wittbecker, state hotel inspector, who declares that "while there is a downward tendency in prices of meals and prices for most article of food in restaurants, there is no excuse for the maintenance of wartime prices by hotels, which in some cases are charging from 200 to 300 per cent of pre-war prices for rooms." There is no justification whatever for such prices, as they are considerably more than the increase in cost of materials and salaries to hotel employees warrants.

It is stated that many wholesale firms are cutting down their forces of traveling men to the minimum as a result of the high prices charged by hotels and the high railroad rates. Is it any wonder that many hotels are complaining "business is light?"

Over in Duluth wages for common labor in the division of public works have been reduced to 40 cents an hour, and for skilled laborers to 41 cents an hour. The wages have heretofore been 45 cents for common labor and 50 cents for skilled labor.

DIDN'T HAVE TO ASK FOR IT

Simple Matter of Finance by Which Frederick Became Possessed of All-Day Sucker.

Frederick has not yet learned the addition and multiplication tables, but he has reached such an understanding of finance as a verb transitive that one wonders as to his future.

"Here, Frederick, you be mother's big man and take this empty milk bottle to the grocery on the corner and bring back a full bottle of fresh milk for baby."

"And I pay the money to the man, mumsie?"

"No, dear. You know how we get it sometimes. The man will charge it."

"Haven't you got any pennies, mumsie?"

"No, Frederick, mumsie hasn't any pennies for candy this time. Now be careful. That's a nice little man."

Frederick returned safely with a bottle of best grade milk. Also, he had a fine all-day sucker in his mouth.

"Why, Frederick! I hope you didn't ask the grocer to give you that candy!"

The sucker had to be removed before the youngster could articulate.

"No—I wouldn't ask—I paid for it."

"Paid! Where did you get the money?"

"He give me a nickel for the empty bottle and then I pay for the sucker, and then—then he charge you for the new bottle milk."

WHAT REAL VACATION MEANS

Play Is the Foundation, and That Consists of Doing Anything That Is Not Work.

A real vacation, if you can get one, consists of play, asserts Preston Slosson in the New York Independent. Play is the opposite of work. Play is whatever is done for its own sweet sake. If you build a fire to warm yourself or to cook a dinner you are at work.

If you build a bonfire because you like to see sparks redden against the sable background of the night you are at play. If you dance to improve your waistline or to learn a new step you are working.

If you dance because you "just can't make your feet behave" when the orchestra starts, you are playing.

If you go fishing to catch fish you are as much at work as if you were building bridges or writing editorials to make money. If you go fishing in the true fisherman's spirit you won't care much whether they bite or not.

The vacation mind is a law unto itself. If it enjoys an occupation it keeps on while the enjoyment lasts, thought every fiber of the tired body may be shouting "quit."

If it ceases to enjoy an occupation it stops at once, though it create consternation all around. A real vacation is a trip into a fairyland, where the natives never heard of duties or obligations and the only law is "Do what you really like."

Cherry and Plum Trees.

Can you positively distinguish between a cherry tree and a plum tree in the spring of the year before the trees carry fruit? You may think that you can, yet, so similar are some cherry and plum trees that eventually you will surely fall unless you employ the simple rule that trained horticulturists follow. That one infallible guide is this: The leaves of the cherry, both in the bud and just after emerging from the bud, are folded together like the pages in a book, while those of the plum are rolled up like a magazine. And, by the way, the leaves of the peach are folded like those of the cherry, and the leaves of the apricot are rolled like those of the plum.

Well Supplied.

Emery had the whooping cough, and it had hung on for a long time. In the worst of it he had contracted a bad cold that added to his discomfort. When he had finally recovered from the effects of that, he was once more allowed to play out of doors.

One morning, as he started out, he commenced to sneeze, and his mother exclaimed in despair: "O, Emery, you have taken another cold," but did not keep him in the house.

He was swinging on the front gate as one of the neighbors went by, who hailed him with, "Hello, Emery. How are you this morning—pretty well?"

Emery answered: "No, sir; I've got two colds and the whooping cough."

Protects From Corrosion.

Browning electrolytically is the method of protecting aluminum and aluminum alloys from corrosion, proposed by L. von Grothters. The electrolyte consists of a sulphur compound of molybdenum, and the metal to be protected is suspended in this solution with a zinc anode at a temperature of 60 to 65 degrees C. The dark brown coating soon developed is not cracked by bending or rolling the metal. The aluminum articles coated in this way are stated to have been free from corrosion even after immersion in salt solution for two months.

Los Angeles Gets Its Aqueduct.

Los Angeles' aqueduct, which was recently completed, is 238 miles in length. It was built by the city of Los Angeles within the estimated cost of $23,000,000, and within the time limit allowed. It consists of 54 miles of tunnel, 12 miles of steel siphon, 60 miles of open ditch, and 101 miles of covered concrete flume. Its capacity is 260,000,000 gallons a day.

The Picture That Made Ray Tonight at the New Park

"The Coward", is the title of the Ray-Keenan picture playing tonight at the New Park, while not a new picture the story and acting will live forever as the best work Chas. Ray has ever done. Keenan has the role of father and Ray the son, in what is considered the most dramatic and well acted of all pictures.

Swimmers and bathers, in fact everyone who loves the water, Anna-ta Kellerman's slow motion diving pictures will be an added attraction at the New Park tomorrow. These show every movement used by the foremost swimmer in the world in high diving and swimming.

"Outside the Law"

Tod Browning's original drama of the underworld, "Outside the Law," comes to the New Park theatre tomorrow with Priscilla Dean in the stellar role. Lon Chaney, Wheeler Oakman, E. A. Warren, Ralph Lewis, Melbourne MacDowell, Wilt Taylor, and a new child actor, Stanley Goethals are in the cast.

Browning produced his story at a cost running into hundreds of thousands of dollars, and the complete picture is said to give ample evidence of the expenditure, by the beauty and lavishness of its production. The locale is San Francisco, and several blocks of the Bay City's underworld. An apartment house on Knob Hill, the modern palace of a banker, and the splendid oriental intricacies of the rear and second floor of a bazaar are some of the more extensive settings.

The story of "Outside the Law," concerns the struggles of a little group of crooks to free themselves from the shackles of crime and live the life they desire. In this they are thwarted and double-crossed by an evil and revengeful figure of the half world, who resents respectability of this drama is an old heathen philosopher, whose ideas of right and wrong are based on no political statutes, and who metes out an unseasoned justice "outside the law."

Priscilla Dean is said to be at her dramatic best in this, her first picture since "The Virgin of Stamboul," while Lon Chaney has a dual role which outshines anything in his career of distinctive and difficult screen impersonations.

"The Birth of a Nation" at Lyceum
This foremost photoplay which has made history for the silver screen, is too well known for further comment. It holds a record of playing in New York City for 47 weeks at $2.00 prices, and only recently played a return two weeks engagement at the Lyceum theatre, New York City to packed houses. "The Birth of a Nation" is a photoplay that never grows old and one always sees something new and different each time they see it.

There is nothing being eliminated on this return engagement except the orchestra and Manager Hiller has contracted to have it shown here at greatly reduced prices.

There will be a daily matinee at 2:15, children 10c and adults 25c. The night performance will start at 8 o'clock sharp and the prices will be 10 and 35c which also includes the tax. It is referred to as the world's greatest photoplay and which millions of people have paid as high as $5.00 a seat to see. It is to be shown today and Tuesday at the Lyceum.

LONELIEST SPOT IN ENGLAND

Residents of Essex Village Surely Are Cut Off From the Society of Their Fellows.

The most inaccessible spot in England, according to a correspondent in the Manchester Guardian, is Foulness, in Essex. As the crow flies Foulness is barely forty miles from London—a little island surrounded from the Essex marshes by the wide estuary of the Crouch. It costs about a pound ($5) to get from Burnham-on-Crouch—the nearest railway station—to Foulness and back, for there is no public service and a bargain for the trip has to be struck with a local boatman. When the boat reaches the pebble shore you scramble as best you can over the sea wall, and so to the surface of the island.

Foulness is about 14 miles round, and possesses a church, an inn and three shops, but no policeman and no doctor. The only industry besides farming appears to be shooting wild duck and widgeon, which abound here in company with many other birds of types rarely seen so far north. At low tide those of the islanders who possess the boat and no money to hire one can walk to the mainland by the Broomway, a huge stretch of sand, with little birch sticks marking the track. This takes them across the Foulness and Maylin sands to Wakering, and involves a tramp of from 10 to 20 miles, according to the point at which the island is left. Nothing can be seen of the outside world from Foulness, for on all sides it is shut in by the sea wall, and there is no vestige of a hill from which to obtain a view.

NATURE OF HOUSE-WARMING

Old Custom in England of Setting Out Meal for Entertainment of New Neighbors.

An ancient custom is still maintained in some parts of England on midsummer eve; every housekeeper who in the course of the year has changed his residence into a new neighborhood spreads a table before his door in the street with bread, cheese and ale for those who choose to resort to it.

The thought cannot but arise that if this custom were prevalent in the

THE BUILDING INDUSTRY

The report of the Hoover committee of elimination of waste in industries of the American engineering council just made public, is well worth the attention of every thoughtful person. The report as just made public deals with the building industry, the activities which are of such vital importance to the American public at this time. It shows that waste, unemployment, accidents, high cost of construction and a score of other evils are causing losses in the building industry of this country running into billions of dollars. These are all economic losses, that it is our duty to eliminate as much as possible.

The elimination of waste and inefficiency and other economic losses is the duty of every well organized civilized community. In fact, the success of any community in so doing is one of the true tests of the extent of its civilization. This report shows that half a billion dollars a year in wages is being lost through irregular employment, and that accidents cost the building industry 120 million dollars a year. There is also a heavy loss through duplication of estimates, designs and bidding. Strikes cause a waste of three million working days a year. All interests brought together in the building industry are blamed for this waste. There is both inefficient management and wasteful labor regulations. The committee goes on to state that conditions are being bettered in that the associated builders and the labor unions interested in this branch of industry have recognized these losses in waste and are seeking to correct them.

In every industry a serious condition of this kind is of importance to the public but at this time in the building industry it is necessary that these conditions be remedied. All communities throughout the United States and, indeed, in other parts of the world are today suffering from the lack of adequate housing facilities. Regardless of the reduction in the cost of building material and also in the price of labor engaged in the building industry, rents are practically as high as ever. While the high rents may not be justified in all instances the demand does exceed the supply and the inevitable result is high rentals.

HOME OWNING COMMUNITY BEST.

It is not a good thing for any community to have any considerable portion of its population living in rented houses or apartments but inversely stated it is of great benefit to any community to have the great majority of its population a home owning population. While home owners may differ in their ideas, whether it be in politics or religion or in any other way where there may be diversity of opinion, any home owner is in the final analysis a conservative in governmental matters, using the word conservative in its best sense.

Any home owner when called upon to finally decide will advocate security in government, will favor law and order and will give real study and real thought to the ultimate outcome and result of the various extravagant theories of government that are so often advanced and demanded by those who have nothing to lose and possibly something to gain.

In any community where a large majority of the inhabitants are home owners there will be prosperity, there will be carefulness in city management and in the expenditures of public moneys, there will be a steady and even flow of business for every home owner learns to love the home and to want to improve it and its surroundings as far as possible.

While Brainerd is a city in which a large majority of the people live in homes that are owned by the occupant nevertheless everything should be done to increase home owning here. There is an opportunity in Brainerd for those who have the interest of the city at heart to devise an honest, thoroughgoing and efficient system for financing the construction and the acquisition of homes. Such a plan would probably have to be worked out through a building and loan association but it must be worked out so as to be fair to all parties involved in the transaction and so that the financial stability of such an association would be assured. Here is an opportunity for service to Brainerd.

THE MOTLEY TRAGEDY

(Motley Mercury)

There seems to be a good many differences of opinion and conflicting ideas coming from outside of Motley and especially from our neighboring town, Staples, in regard to the tragedy that occurred at Motley a few days ago.

Sentiment at Motley is ninety per cent one way, however. Everybody regrets that a life was lost, but our people are placing the blame where it rightfully belongs. The man who lost his life paid the penalty for his own sins. He was one of a party of four who planned and carried out a most frightful outrage upon peaceful and innocent citizens, and who ran amuck the law. Those who went to arrest the gang of four desperate men were expected to perform their duty and had the authority to enforce the law at any cost. The situation was desperate and desperate means were resorted to.

We, who were on the ground, are better able to judge the right and wrong of this affair than those who are expressing opinions from untrue stories that are being circulated by a few who, perhaps, believe in outlawry, crime and disorder, and who are in sympathy with the men who are responsible for the terrible outrage. The people of Motley know that the few who are telling these stories, and especially one of these men, do not know how to tell the truth, and persons to whom they are talking should know them well enough to know this.

Our citizens are going to demand that the law be enforced to the limit and that the remaining members of the gang be punished to the fullest extent of the law. They brought the trouble upon themselves and are deserving of no sympathy. They are equally responsible with their brother for his death and let them pay the penalty.

On the other hand, our citizens are united and will stand back of those whose duty it was to enforce the law. They tried to enforce the law and must be upheld. Our officers are held blameless and they will be upheld and protected to the last ditch.

CLEANED AND CLEANED!

Last Sunday a large number of Pillager people enjoyed the day picnicking at Rocky Point where the Game & Fish convention was being held. During the afternoon several of the local boys hired a tent in which to change their clothes, and went in swimming. After a good cleaning in the lake they repaired to their tent and found they had been cleaned a second time. Some blanketed blank rascal had gone thru their clothes and took everything of value. Edwin Holmgren lost several dollars in cash besides a watch valued at $40; the Herald editor lost a small watch which he had carried all three France and valued very highly as a keepsake, together with a French gold piece and a small amount of change. Harold Dorsey lost about $4.50; Leslie Fisk several dollars and others various amounts.

HIGH HOTEL RATES

The general public will most heartily agree with W. A. Wittbecker, state hotel inspector, who declares that "while there is a downward tendency in prices of meals and prices for most article of food in restaurants, there is no excuse for the maintenance of wartime prices by hotels, which in some cases are charging from 200 to 300 per cent of pre-war prices for rooms." There is no justification whatever for such prices, as they are considerably more than the increase in cost of materials and salaries to hotel employees warrants.

It is stated that many wholesale firms are cutting down their forces of traveling men to the minimum as a result of the high prices charged by hotels and the high railroad rates. Is it any wonder that many hotels are complaining "business is light?"

Over in Duluth wages for common labor in the division of public works have been reduced to 40 cents an hour, and for skilled laborers to 45 cents an hour. The wages here before were 45 cents for common labor and 50 cents for skilled labor.

DIDN'T HAVE TO ASK FOR IT

Simple Matter of Finance by Which Frederick Became Possessed of All-Day Sucker.

Frederick has not yet learned the addition and multiplication tables, but he has reached such an understanding of finance as a verb transitive that one wonders as to his future.

"Here, Frederick, you be mother's big man and take this empty milk bottle to the grocery on the corner and bring back a full bottle of fresh milk for baby."

"And I pay the money to the man, mumsie?"

"No, dear. You know how we get it sometimes. The man will charge it."

"Haven't you got any pennies, mumsie?"

"No, Frederick, mumsie hasn't any pennies for candy this time. Now be careful. That's a nice little man."

Frederick returned safely with a bottle of best grade milk. Also, he had a fine all-day sucker in his mouth.

"Why, Frederick! I hope you didn't ask the grocer to give you that candy?"

The sucker had to be removed before the youngster could articulate.

"No—I wouldn't ask—I paid for it!"

"Paid! Where did you get the money?"

"He give me a nickel for the empty bottle and then I pay for the sucker, and then—he charge you for the new bottle milk."

WHAT REAL VACATION MEANS

Play is the Foundation, and That Consists of Doing Anything That Is Not Work.

A real vacation, if you can get one, consists of play, asserts Preston Slosson in the New York Independent. Play is the opposite of work. Play is whatever is done for its own sweet sake. If you build a fire to warm yourself or to cook a dinner you are at work.

If you build a bonfire because you like to see sparks redden against the sable background of the night you are at play. If you dance to improve your waistline or to learn a new step you are working.

If you dance because you "just can't make your feet behave" when the orchestra starts, you are playing.

If you go fishing to catch fish you are as much at work as if you were building bridges or writing editorials to make money. If you go fishing in the true fisherman's spirit you won't care much whether they bite or not.

The vacation mind is a law unto itself. If it enjoys an occupation it keeps on while the enjoyment lasts, thought every fiber of the tired body may be shouting "quit."

If it ceases to enjoy an occupation it stops at once, though it create consternation all around. A real vacation is a trip into a fairyland, where the natives never heard of duties or obligations and the only law is "Do what you really like."

Cherry and Plum Trees.

Can you positively distinguish between a cherry tree and a plum tree in the spring of the year before the trees carry fruit? You may think that you can, yet, so similar are some cherry and plum trees that eventually you will surely fail unless you employ the simple rule that trained horticulturists follow. That one infallible guide is this: The leaves of the cherry, both in the bud and just after emerging from the bud, are folded together like the pages in a book, while those of the plum are rolled up like a magazine. And, by the way, the leaves of the peach are folded like those of the cherry, and the leaves of the apricot are rolled like those of the plum.

Well Supplied.

Emery had the whooping cough, and it had hung on for a long time. In the worst of it he had contracted a bad cold that added to his discomfort. When he had finally recovered from the effects of that, he was once more allowed to play out of doors.

One morning, as he started out, he commenced to sneeze, and his mother exclaimed in despair: "O, Emery, you have taken another cold," but did not keep him in the house.

He was swinging on the front gate as one of the neighbors went by, who hailed him with, "Hello, Emery. How are you this morning—pretty well?"

Emery answered: "No, sir; I've got two colds and the whooping cough."

Protects From Corrosion.

Browning electrolytically is the method of protecting aluminum and aluminum alloys from corrosion, proposed by L. von Grothters. The electrolyte consists of a sulphur compound of molybdenum, and the metal to be protected is suspended in this solution with a zinc anode at a temperature of 80 to 90 degrees C. The dark brown coating soon developed is not cracked by bending or rolling the metal. The aluminum articles coated in this way are stated to have been free from corrosion even after immersion in salt solution for two months.

Los Angeles Gets Its Aqueduct.

Los Angeles' aqueduct, which was recently completed, is 238 miles in length. It was built by the city of Los Angeles within the estimated cost of $23,000,000, and within the time limit allowed. It consists of 54 miles of tunnel, 12 miles of steel siphon, 60 miles of open ditch, and 101 miles of covered concrete flume. Its capacity is 260,000,000 gallons a day.

The Picture That Made Ray Tonight at the New Park

"The Coward", is the title of the Ray-Keenan picture playing tonight at the New Park, while not a new picture the story and acting will live forever as the best work Chas. Ray has ever done. Keenan has the role of father and Ray the son, in what is considered the most dramatic and well acted of all pictures.

Swimmers and bathers, in fact everyone who loves the water, Annetta Kellerman's slow motion diving pictures will be an added attraction at the New Park tomorrow. These show every movement used by the foremost swimmer in the world in high diving and swimming.

"Outside the Law"

Tod Browning's original drama of the underworld, "Outside the Law," comes to the New Park theatre tomorrow with Priscilla Dean in the stellar role. Lon Chaney, Wheeler Oakman, E. A. Warren, Ralph Lewis, Melbourne MacDowell, Will Taylor, and a new child actor, Stanley Goethals are in the cast.

Browning produced his story at a cost running into hundreds of thousands of dollars, and the complete picture is said to give ample evidence of the expenditure, by the beauty and lavishness of its production. The locale is San Francisco, and several blocks of the Bay City's underworld. An apartment house on Knob Hill, the modern palace of a banker, and the splendid oriental intricacies of the rear and second floor of a bazaar are some of the more extensive settings.

The story of "Outside the Law," concerns the struggles of a little group of crooks to free themselves from the shackles of crime and live the life they desire. In this they are thwarted and double-crossed by an evil and revengeful figure of the half world, who resents respectability of this drama is an old heathen philosopher, whose ideas of right and wrong are based on no political statutes, and who metes out an unsanctioned justice "outside the law."

Priscilla Dean is said to be at her dramatic best in this, her first picture since "The Virgin of Stamboul," while Lou Chaney has a dual role which outshines anything in his career of distinctive and difficult screen impersonations.

"The Birth of a Nation" at Lyceum
This foremost photoplay which has made history for the silver screen, is too well known for further comment. It holds a record of playing in New York City for 47 weeks at $2.00 prices, and only recently played a return two weeks engagement at the Privile theatre, New York City to packed houses. "The Birth of a Nation" is a photoplay that never grows old and one always sees something new and different each time they see it.

There is nothing being eliminated on this return engagement except the orchestra and Manager Hiller has contracted to have it shown here at greatly reduced prices.

There will be a daily matinee at 2:15, children 10c and adults 25c. The night performance will start at 8 o'clock sharp and the prices will be 10 and 35c which also includes the tax. It is referred to as the world's greatest photoplay and which millions of people have paid as high as $5.00 a seat to see. It is to be shown today and Tuesday at the Lyceum.

LONELIEST SPOT IN ENGLAND

Residents of Essex Village Surely Are Cut Off From the Society of Their Fellows.

The most inaccessible spot in England, according to a correspondent in the Manchester Guardian, is Foulness, in Essex. As the crow flies Foulness is barely forty miles from London—a little island surrounded from the Essex marshes by the wide estuary of the Crouch. It costs about a pound ($5) to get from Burnham-on-Crouch—the nearest railway station—to Foulness and back, for there is no public service and a bargain for the trip has to be struck with a local boatman. When the boat reaches the pebble shore you scramble as best you can over the sea wall, and so to the surface of the island.

Foulness is about 14 miles round, and possesses a church, an inn and three shops, but no policeman and no doctor. The only industry besides farming appears to be shooting wild duck and wildgeon, which abound here in company with many other birds of types rarely seen so far north. At low tide those of the islanders who possess the boat and no money to hire one can walk to the mainland by the Broonway, a huge stretch of sand, with little birch sticks marking the track. This takes them across the Foulness and Maylin sands to Wakering, and involves a tramp of from 10 to 20 miles, according to the point at which the island is left. Nothing can be seen of the outside world from Foulness, for on all sides it is shut in by the sea wall, and there is no vestige of a hill from which to obtain a view.

NATURE OF HOUSE-WARMING

Old Custom in England of Setting Out Meal for Entertainment of New Neighbors.

An ancient custom is still maintained in some parts of England on midsummer eve; every housekeeper who in the course of the year has changed his residence into a new neighborhood spreads a table before his door in the street with bread, cheese and ale for those who choose to resort to it.

The thought cannot but arise that if this custom were prevalent in the

REV. ELOF G. CARLSON TO LARGER FIELD

Popular Pastor of Clara Swedish Lutheran Church to Take Charge Bethel Lutheran, Minneapolis

RESIGNATION EFFECTIVE NOV. 1

During Eight Years' Pastorate in Brainerd Built New Church, Added to Congregation

At his Sunday service in Clara Swedish Lutheran church Rev. Elof G. Carlson announced to the congregation that he had, after deep thought, accepted the call from the Bethel Lutheran church of Minneapolis. It meant a wider field for him and more opportunity to serve the Lord.

The resignation is effective as of November 1. It is with a feeling of great personal loss that the local church regards the removal of Rev. Carlson from Brainerd to Minneapolis. In his eight years in Brainerd Rev. Carlson has been a factor in constructive work. During his pastorate the congregation built a new church and remodelled the parsonage. The congregation membership roll was tripled. It was not alone in the work of the church that the pastor was a factor, but in civic work of all kinds.

CLARA LUTHERAN CHURCH
Fine Church Built in Brainerd During Rev. Elof G. Carlson's Pastorate

He served eight years on the school board. He was four years an active member of the board of health. In war days he was chairman of civilian relief in the Red Cross.

It is with sincere regret that Brainerd friends of the pastor heard of his announcement. He will continue serving the local church until November 1 when his pastorate starts in Minneapolis. In Brainerd he will be succeeded by Rev. M. W. Gustafson, who was a student preacher in Brainerd in 1917.

REV. ELOF G. CARLSON
Brainerd Pastor Accepts Call in the Bethel Lutheran Church, Minneapolis

Success in large measure in his new field is the wish of all his friends and the hope is also expressed that Rev. Carlson and his estimable wife and little baby may frequently visit Brainerd and thus renew all the friendships during his pastorate.

STORE SPACE TO BE DOUBLED SOON

"The Golden Rule" Owned by H. H. Hafstrom to Have Larger Store Quarters

MANY IMPROVEMENTS SEPT. 1

Contractors at Work Enlarging the Quarters, Additional Lines to be Added Store

Starting business in Brainerd on March 10 of this year, and adopting a selling plan of making every dollar of a purchaser get full value, the "Golden Rule" store of H. H. Hafstrom has so largely increased its list of satisfied customers that it has been confronted with the imperative need for larger quarters. For a time the proprietor H. H. Hafstrom thought of erecting a new building to house his store.

Arrangements have now been perfected whereby the owners of the Koop block will remodel a section west of the Golden Rule, take out a partition and make an enlarged store double the size of the first one occupied by the Golden Rule. Hardwood floors will be laid throughout and many other improvements added, all to be completed by September 1.

Increased floor space will enable Mr. Hafstrom to add new lines and increase the variety of ones first established. The store deals in women's ready to wear goods, gents' furnishings, shoes, etc.

Mr. Hafstrom came to Brainerd from Morristown, S. D., from where he conducted four large general stores located at Fryburg and Gascoyne, S. D., and Wautauga and Morristown, S. D. All his mercantile interests were disposed of in the Dakota's and he centered his attention on Brainerd with the success attained as mentioned above.

A large summer clearance sale opens at the Brainerd store on July 30th as previously advertised in the Dispatch.

BRAINERD'S OLDEST STORIES TODAY

Reading the "Who's Who" columns was the popular indoor sport Saturday and Sunday, as readers went over the 82 firms written up and guessed the name of the firm referred to. And the next days there followed inquiries as to the lines of goods carried, to see if the firm guessed matched the description.

All labor papers of Minnesota carried articles on the Brainerd labor convention. The Labor World of W. E. McEwen of Duluth had a full account of the sessions. The Minnesota Union Advocate of St. Paul had a most comprehensive article on the meetings. Then in addition every city paper in the state carried more or less extended notice of the convention. Brainerd papers gave much space to it. Summing it up, the State Federation of Labor and Brainerd received a large amount of publicity.

The Minnesota Letter Carriers' convention is expected to bring over 300 delegates to Brainerd. It is estimated that ninety per cent of these carriers use cars to carry mail and will accordingly motor to Brainerd to attend the convention. In all the history of motoring no one ever heard of a man driving a car alone to a convention. Each carrier may take from one to five of his family to Brainerd. It doesn't need much figuring to get a line on the attendance, which may be over a thousand if the weather and roads are good during the convention period. There is no class of men more intimately acquainted with the development of the county than the rural letter carriers.

REV. ELOF G. CARLSON TO LARGER FIELD

Popular Pastor of Clara Swedish Lutheran Church to Take Charge Bethel Lutheran, Minneapolis

RESIGNATION EFFECTIVE NOV. 1

During Eight Years' Pastorate in Brainerd Built New Church, Added to Congregation

At his Sunday service in Clara Swedish Lutheran church Rev. Elof G. Carlson announced to the congregation that he had, after deep thought, accepted the call from the Bethel Lutheran church of Minneapolis. It meant a wider field for him and more opportunity to serve the Lord.

The resignation is effective as of November 1. It is with a feeling of great personal loss that the local church regards the removal of Rev. Carlson from Brainerd to Minneapolis. In his eight years in Brainerd Rev. Carlson has been a factor in constructive work. During his pastorate the congregation built a new church and remodelled the parsonage. The congregation membership roll was tripled. It was not alone in the work of the church that the pastor was a factor, but in civic work of all kinds.

CLARA LUTHERAN CHURCH
Fine Church Built in Brainerd During Rev. Elof G. Carlson's Pastorate

He served eight years on the school board. He was four years an active member of the board of health. In war days he was chairman of civilian relief in the Red Cross.

It is with sincere regret that Brainerd friends of the pastor heard of his announcement. He will continue serving the local church until November 1 when his pastorate starts in Minneapolis. In Brainerd he will be succeeded by Rev. M. W. Gustafson, who was a student preacher in Brainerd in 1917.

Brainerd Pastor Accepts Call in the Bethel Lutheran Church, Minneapolis

Success in large measure in his new field is the wish of all his friends and the hope is also expressed that Rev. Carlson and his estimable wife and little baby may frequently visit Brainerd and thus renew all the friendships during his pastorate.

STAPLES

Staples, Minn., July 22—Among those who attended the Minnesota Game Protective League convention at Gull Lake were J. L. Cross, D. D. Davidson, Herbert Soderquist, Dr. P. H. Allen, Arthur Ahlbrecht and family, W. H. Johnson and Phil Adams. Dr. Allen distinguished himself in the trap shooting.

Miss Doris Bush, of Spokane, Wash., niece of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bush, was married to Chester Read.

Rev. W. H. Johnson attended the Congregational conference in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wiltrout went to Brainerd where she expects to be operated on for goiter.

STORE SPACE TO BE DOUBLED SOON

"The Golden Rule" Owned by H. H. Hafstrom to Have Larger Store Quarters

MANY IMPROVEMENTS SEPT. 1

Contractors at Work Enlarging the Quarters, Additional Lines to be Added Store

Starting business in Brainerd on March 10 of this year, and adopting a selling plan of making every dollar of a purchaser get full value, the "Golden Rule" store of H. H. Hafstrom has so largely increased its list of satisfied customers that it has been confronted with the imperative need for larger quarters. For a time the proprietor, H. H. Hafstrom, thought of erecting a new building to house his store.

Arrangements have now been perfected whereby the owners of the Koop block will remodel a section west of the Golden Rule, take out a partition and make an enlarged store double the size of the first one occupied by the Golden Rule. Hardwood floors will be laid throughout and many other improvements added, all to be completed by September 1.

Increased floor space will enable Mr. Hafstrom to add new lines and increase the variety of ones first established. The store deals in women's ready to wear goods, gents' furnishings, shoes, etc.

Mr. Hafstrom came to Brainerd from Morristown, S. D., from where he conducted four large general stores located at Fryburg and Gascogne, S. D., and Wautauga and Morristown, S. D. All his mercantile interests were disposed of in the Dakota's and he centered his attention on Brainerd with the success attained as mentioned above.

A large summer clearance sale opens at the Brainerd store on July 30th as previously advertised in the Dispatch.

 BRAINERD'S OLDEST STORIES TODAY *****

Reading the "Who's Who" columns was the popular indoor sport Saturday and Sunday, as readers went over the 82 firms written up and guessed the name of the firm referred to. And the next days there followed inquiries as to the lines of goods carried, to see if the firm guessed matched the description.

All labor papers of Minneapolis carried articles on the Brainerd labor convention. The Labor World of W. E. McEwen of Duluth had a full account of the sessions. The Minnesota Union Advocate of St. Paul had a most comprehensive article on the meetings. Then in addition every city paper, in the state carried more or less extended notice of the convention. Brainerd papers gave much space to it. Summing it up, the State Federation of Labor and Brainerd received a large amount of publicity.

The Minnesota Letter Carriers' convention is expected to bring over 300 delegates to Brainerd. It is estimated that ninety per cent of these carriers use cars to carry mail and will accordingly motor to Brainerd to attend the convention. In all the history of motoring no one ever heard of a man driving a car alone to a convention. Each carrier may take from one to five of his family to Brainerd. It doesn't need much figuring to get a line on the attendance, which may be over a thousand if the weather and roads are good during the convention period. There is no class of men more intimately acquainted with the development of the county than the rural letter carriers.

FARM CENSUS FIGURES OF COUNTY

In a farm census bulletin issued by N. J. Holmberg, the state agricultural commissioner statistics show there are 1220 farms in the county, 67 silos and 24 tractors. The total number of acres in farms in the county are 171,805.

THE CITY'S SOUL

By LYDIA LION ROBERTS.

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"My soul, Lottie, plaintively mocked Frank, "you're as pleasant as a blizzard. What in the world is the matter with you lately?"

"I guess it's my soul," Lottie replied ruefully. "I've lost it somewhere. Since nursing the family through the grippe I've forgotten I ever had a soul. I think it has drowned in the dishpan."

Frank watched her as she nervously got the children ready for school, a worried frown between her usually merry brown eyes.

"No, I don't want any more breakfast," Lottie said, as he waited for her to sit opposite him. "I don't feel hungry lately; I just feel cross."

"Listen, dear," said Frank briskly as he got up to get his overcoat. "I'm going to give you $5 and I want you to use it to find your soul. When you've found it bring it home with you and we'll try to make it so contented it won't leave you again."

"I wouldn't blame the whole family for leaving," smiled Lottie. "I'm so disagreeable it's a wonder anyone can live with me, let alone a fine, handsome husband like you," she roguishly added.

"Well, I formed the pleasant habit years ago and I'm getting so old I hate to change my habits," declared Frank cheerily as he hurried off to work.

A few hours later Lottie stood gazing at the tempting window displays.

"I haven't had a thing new all winter," she told herself. "I think the shock of seeing myself in a new waist would make me better at once."

After her purchase she walked slowly along the crowded streets.

The flapping and whirling of wings attracted her attention and she stopped to watch the pretty scene.

A boy with the look of strong, clean youth, growing into manhood, was standing in the middle of a path. Almost motionless except for a slight opening of his hand, an absorbed smile on his freckled face, he lured the fat, plump pigeons close to him by his offer of their favorite food.

As he scattered the peas around him the eager birds walked up his back, waddled around his neck, clung to his arms and shoulders and rested on his fingers.

"Oh, to be an artist," sighed Lottie in appreciation of the beauty of the picture. "I'll carry that picture home in my brain gallery to tell the children."

Almost before she realized it the noon bells rang out.

"I have just time to step into the cathedral for the noon service," she planned. "I've lived near the city all my life and never been in before."

The brief sermon over, the singing done, many people went out, but Lottie lingered with others. Presently the grand tones of the organ filled the room, and clear and sweet rose the haunting strains of a violin.

"Any woman," said Lottie to herself, as she quietly wiped her eyes, "who couldn't go back to work after that, with her soul big and whole and her heart full of love to be poured out on her family—well—this woman had just better, or she's a slacker in the battle of life."

"Now for a stroll down my favorite famous street, and then back to the train," she decided, as she left the church.

"Of all adorable combinations of quaint knockers, lovely doorways, old-world windows, and the benediction left by the spirits of the good and great people who have lived here—is it possible to get such an atmosphere anywhere but in my own dear, dirty, heart-warming city!" exclaimed Lottie, as her walk led her finally to the river sparkling merrily in the sun.

"Almost train time, but I've just a few minutes to see this picture on exhibition at one of the big stores."

"Four hundred years ago this picture was painted," she heard the lecturer say, as she slipped into the hall.

"That was before this country was settled," thought Lottie. "Before the inventions and modern marvels. Yet, I today, just one tired little housewife, sit here and view the unfaded richness, the glowing colors of that picture. The artist is gone, but he left a bit of his soul on canvas and after 400 years it speaks to my cramped, kitchen-bound one and bids it grow."

"Oh, bless anyone who gives anything to the world that makes us bigger and better, so that we can hand on the heritage of beauty to our children! I'm going home where I belong, and 'carry on' my share. I've got the loveliest home and finest man, and most remarkable children that any woman needs to keep her soul safe and strong."

"I guess my soul just had growing pains—let's hope it has stretched a little today." And with a whimsical smile at herself, Lottie turned homeward.

"Well?" inquired Frank, after he had listened with a pleased smile to her account of the day, "how is your—"

"Keep still, you tease," answered Lottie. "Yes, I found it, where I always do—in the city. There's a mighty rhythm, a power and a peace, always to be found by those who seek, in the soul of the city. I'm ready to go 'marching on,' in tune again with life."

YOUNG UNSUNG PITCHING STARS EASILY ECLIPSING OLD-TIMERS

Old pitching bones have had a lot of tough going this season. Youngsters, unknown and unsung, are slipping into the regal robes of the old kings of the mound.

"Lefty" Cooper, Fred Toney, "Babe" Adams and "Red" Faber are the only veterans showing anything close to their old form.

Alexander the Great is doing bench duty for the Chicago Cubs with a sore arm and Jim Vaughn, his big teammate, isn't delivering as expected.

Dutch Reuther, sensation of the 1919 pennant dash of the Cincinnati Reds, is a disappointment in Brooklyn and his old staff mate, Hod Eller, is out of the game under suspension.

Burleigh Grimes, Sherry Smith and in fact all of Uncle Rob's All-star pitching staff cracked and Brooklyn is falling down in the pennant race.

Ferdie Schupp and Bill Doak of the Cards are out of form. Scott Perry has fallen by the wayside with the Athletics. Bob Shawkey has been useless to the Yankees and Tris Speaker is having his trouble with his stars, Coveleskie, Bagby and Mills.

Arthur Nehf, the $35,000 beauty of the New York Giants, hasn't been as effective as Bill Ryan, a rookie pitcher from the International League.

Waiter Johnson's work with the Washington Senators makes it seem that the old star is almost through. Joe Bush hasn't shown anything for the Boston Red Sox and George Daus has done the Tigers very little good. Dick Rudolph had to give up after a brave effort and is now working with the Braves as a coach.

CAKE SUFFICIENT FOR ARMY

Monster Confection That William I of Prussia Set Before Thirty Thousand Fighting Men.

When William I of Prussia gave his army a regale in 1790 he let them feast on vegetables and roast beef, and then wash it down with lots of beer and ale, according to William S. Walsh, who has a taste for compiling curious information. When the thirty thousand guests had almost finished their meal they saw their dessert coming on a dry drawn by eight horses. The dry bore a gigantic cake—said to have been the largest cake ever baked. It was twenty-four feet square and a foot and a half thick.

Mixed in the cake were products which would have fed a small village. More than thirty-six bushels of flour were mixed in it; 200 gallons of milk had been used; one ton of butter had made it rise; 5,000 eggs had been patiently broken and beaten into the batter. The result, baked under extreme difficulties, was the big cake, containing over 850 cubic feet of the gooey.

But the thirty thousand guests had filled themselves on roast beef and vegetables and it was impossible for them to eat all the cake, although it would have been possible for them to do so had they all been hungry. Obviously, so much cake could not be allowed to go to waste. So the remainder of it was cut up and distributed in nearby villages to the various needy families, who made short work of it.

VICTOR HUGO IN OLD AGE

In His Reminiscences Saint-Saens Tells of Colossal Intellect Affected by the Years.

Saint-Saens, the great composer, in his "Musical Memories" has some interesting reminiscences of Victor Hugo, who was an old man when he knew him, but who seemed "rather like an ageless and immortal being whom time could never touch."

"Time, alas! goes on, and that fine intellect which had ever been unclouded began to give signs of aberration. One day he said to an Italian delegation, 'The French are Italians; the Italians are French. French and Italians ought to go to Africa together and found the United States of Europe.'"

"Victor Hugo's credulity was astonishing in a man of such colossal genius. Hearing that the remains of Voltaire and Rousseau had been exhumed and desecrated, he wrote a wonderful account of it. When the coffins were opened, the two great men were peacefully sleeping their last sleep."

"He believed in the most incredible things, as the 'Mao in the Iron Mask,' the twin brother of Louis XIV, in the of Yemen, with Saria as capital."

octopus that has no mouth and feeds itself through its arms, and in the reality of the Japanese sirens which the Japanese were said to make out of an ape and a fish. He had some excuse for the sirens, as the Académie des Sciences believed in them for a short time."—Chicago American.

Children Hold Future of Music.

The future of music as an instrument of culture lies with the children of the people. Nowhere but in the elementary schools can they be reached. Colleges of music are necessary to train the professional, but the education committees of the great towns have the largely neglected opportunity of making the rising generation a music-loving public. The innate faculty of appreciation is there, and is commonly diffused among scholars of the most essentially industrial areas. It only needs direction and cultivation, for one of the greatest pleasures to be added to the amenities of town life, pleasures at present so lamentably few. The main idea is to teach the children how to appreciate and enjoy good music, how to become intelligent listeners, rather than to become performers themselves.—Exchange.

Romans Disappointed of Dancing.

Of all the amusements that we indulge in nowadays, perhaps dancing is the oldest. Dancing seems to be one of man's primitive instincts. The Greeks were, perhaps, the greatest dancers there have ever been. Some of them held that the destiny of nations depended on the rigorous attention given to dancing. The Spartans made dancing necessary as a gymnastic exercise; but the Romans disapproved of it. "No one dances sober unless he chances to be mad," said one of them. And they all considered it was disgraceful for a free citizen to dance, unless it were at a religious festival. The early Christians practiced choral dances, although St. Augustine is said to have objected. He certainly said: "It is better to dig than dance."

Arabia.

Arabia is a peninsula in the southwest of the Asiatic continent, forming the connecting link between Asia and Africa, lying between the Persian gulf and the Gulf of Oman on the east and the Red sea on the west, the two continents being united at the Isthmus of Suez. Arabia is divided into many kingdoms and principalities, each of which has its own capital, as follows: The kingdom of Hejaz, with Mecca as its capital; the emirate of Nejd and Hasa, with Riyadh as capital; the principality of Koweit, with Koweit as capital; the sultanate of Oman, with Muscat as capital; the emirate of Jabel Shammer, with Hail as capital; the emirate of Asir, with Eborah as capital, and the imamate of Yemen, with Saria as capital.

Annie Laurie.

Annie Laurie was the oldest of the three daughters of Sir Robert Laurie of Maxwellton, in the county of Kirkcubright, Scotland. In 1709 she married James Ferguson, of Craigdarroch, and she was the mother of Alexander Ferguson, the hero of Burns' song, "The Whistle." The song of "Annie Laurie" was written by William Douglas of Finland, in the stewardry of Kirkcubright, hero of the song "Willie Was a Wanton Wag."

GRANDMA NEVER LET HER HAIR GET GRAY

She Kept Her Locks Dark and Glossy, With Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though at home is messy and troublesome. At least, you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, and look years younger.

A Hurry Call.

Sir Philip Sassoon, who is now Lloyd George's secretary, was formerly the secretary of Sir Douglas Haig, from whom he received the following telegram last Easter day: "Christ is risen. May want a secretary."—From L'Europe Nouvelle.

Long Time Ago!

Jud Tunkins says he can remember when every home had a picture of a soldier or a statesman in the parlor, instead of the photographs of a motion picture star.

For Flies.

For the woman who lives in the country and is unable to get fly paper when her supply runs out, this hint will be useful. Mix half teaspoonful of black pepper, one teaspoonful brown sugar, one teaspoonful of milk, place on plate, and the flies will soon disappear.

Advertisers in the Daily Dispatch

Now get the same cut service as the big city dailies.

We have made arrangements with the Murray Illustrated Advertising Company of New York, for the furnishing of cuts for advertising purposes absolutely free to our patrons. This service is the best in America and has as clients some of the largest newspapers published.

Never before has it been possible for a paper to furnish this service without a considerable added outlay on the part of the advertiser, and even now it is only offered to the paper recognized by advertisers and readers as the leader in its section.

The Dispatch buys the cuts; the advertiser pays for the space in the paper at the same rate as for other advertising. Many of our patrons have already taken advantage of this offer and others are invited to do so.

We will be glad to explain the matter more fully

THE CITY'S SOUL

By LYDIA LION ROBERTS.

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"My soul, Lottie, plaintively mocked Frank, 'you're as pleasant as a blizzard. What in the world is the matter with you lately?'"

"I guess it's my soul," Lottie replied ruefully. "I've lost it somewhere. Since nursing the family through the grippe I've forgotten I ever had a soul. I think it has drowned in the dishpan."

Frank watched her as she nervously got the children ready for school, a worried frown between her usually merry brown eyes.

"No, I don't want any more breakfast," Lottie said, as he waited for her to sit opposite him. "I don't feel hungry lately; I just feel cross."

"Listen, dear," said Frank briskly as he got up to get his overcoat. "I'm going to give you $5 and I want you to use it to find your soul. When you've found it bring it home with you and we'll try to make it so contented it won't leave you again."

"I wouldn't blame the whole family for leaving," smiled Lottie. "I'm so disagreeable it's a wonder anyone can live with me, let alone a fine, handsome husband like you," she regally added.

"Well, I formed the pleasant habit years ago and I'm getting so old I hate to change my habits," declared Frank cheerily as he hurried off to work.

A few hours later Lottie stood gazing at the tempting window displays.

"I haven't had a thing new all winter," she told herself. "I think the shock of seeing myself in a new waist would make me better at once."

After her purchase she walked slowly along the crowded streets.

The flapping and whirling of wings attracted her attention and she stopped to watch the pretty scene. A boy with the look of strong, clean youth, growing into manhood, was standing in the middle of a path. Almost motionless except for a slight opening of his hand, an absorbed smile on his freckled face, he lured the fat, plump pigeons close to him by his offer of their favorite food. As he scattered the peas around him the eager birds walked up his back, waddled around his neck, clung to his arms and shoulders and rested on his fingers.

"Oh, to be an artist," sighed Lottie in appreciation of the beauty of the picture. "I'd carry that picture home in my brain gallery to tell the children."

Almost before she realized it the noon bells rang out.

"I have just time to step into the cathedral for the noon service," she planned. "I've lived near the city all my life and never been in before."

The brief sermon over, the singing done, many people went out, but Lottie lingered with others. Presently the grand tones of the organ filled the room, and clear and sweet rose the haunting strains of a violin.

"Any woman," said Lottie to herself, as she quietly wiped her eyes, "who couldn't go back to work after that, with her soul big and whole and her heart full of love to be poured out on her family—well—this woman had just better, or she's a slacker in the battle of life."

"Now for a stroll down my favorite famous street, and then back to the train," she decided, as she left the church.

"Of all adorable combinations of quaint knockers, lovely doorways, old-world windows, and the benediction left by the spirits of the good and great people who have lived here—is it possible to get such an atmosphere anywhere but in my own dear, dirty, heart-warming city!" exclaimed Lottie, as her walk led her finally to the river sparkling merrily in the sun.

"Almost train time, but I've just a few minutes to see this picture on exhibition at one of the big stores."

"Four hundred years ago this picture was painted," she heard the lecturer say, as she slipped into the hall.

"That was before this country was settled," thought Lottie. "Before the inventions and modern marvels. Yet, I today, just one tired little housewife, sit here and view the unfaded richness, the glowing colors of that picture. The artist is gone, but he left a bit of his soul on canvas and after 400 years it speaks to me of cramped, kitchen-bound one and bids it grow."

"Oh, bless anyone who gives anything to the world that makes us bigger and better, so that we can hand on the heritage of beauty to our children! I'm going home where I belong, and 'carry on' my share. I've got the loveliest home and finest man, and most remarkable children that any woman needs to keep her soul safe and strong."

"I guess my soul just had growing pains—let's hope it has stretched a little today." And with a whimsical smile at herself, Lottie turned homeward.

"Well?" inquired Frank, after he had listened with a pleased smile to her account of the day, "how is your—"

"Keep still, you tease," answered Lottie. "Yes, I found it, where I always do—in the city. There's a mighty rhythm, a power and a peace, always to be found by those who seek, in the soul of the city. I'm ready to go 'marching on,' in tune again with life."

YOUNG UNSUNG PITCHING STARS EASILY ECLIPSING OLD-TIMERS

Old pitching bones have had a lot of tough going this season. Youngsters, unknown and unsung, are slipping into the regal robes of the old kings of the mound.

"Lefty" Cooper, Fred Toney, "Babe" Adams and "Red" Faber are the only veterans showing anything close to their old form.

Alexander the Great is doing bench duty for the Chicago Cubs with a sore arm and Jim Vaughn, his big teammate, isn't delivering as expected.

Dutch Routhier, sensation of the 1919 pennant dash of the Cincinnati Reds, is a disappointment in Brooklyn and his old staff mate, Hod Eller, is out of the game under suspension.

Burleigh Grimes, Sherry Smith and in fact all of Uncle Rob's All-star pitching staff cracked and Brooklyn is falling down in the pennant race.

Ferdie Schupp and Bill Doak of the Cards are out of form. Scott Perry has fallen by the wayside with the Athletics. Bob Shawkey has been useless to the Yankees and Tris Speaker is having his trouble with his stars, Coveleskie, Ragby and Mails.

Arthur Nehf, the $25,000 beauty of the New York Giants, hasn't been as effective as Bill Ryan, a rookie pitcher from the International league.

Walter Johnson's work with the Washington Senators makes it seem that the old star is almost through. Joe Bush hasn't shown anything for the Boston Red Sox and George Daus has the Tigers very little good. Dick Rudolph had to give up after a brave effort and is now working with the Braves as a coach.

CAKE SUFFICIENT FOR ARMY

Monster Confection That William I of Prussia Set Before Thirty Thousand Fighting Men.

When William I of Prussia gave his army a regale in 1790 he let them feast on vegetables and roast beef, and then wash it down with lots of beer and ale, according to William S. Walsh, who has a taste for compiling curious information. When the thirty thousand guests had almost finished their meal they saw their dessert coming on a dry drawn by eight horses. The dry bore a gigantic cake—said to have been the largest cake ever baked. It was twenty-four feet square and a foot and a half thick.

Mixed in the cake were products which would have fed a small village. More than thirty-six bushels of flour were mixed in it; 200 gallons of milk had been used; one ton of butter had made it rich, and one ton of yeast had been used; 5,000 eggs had been patiently broken and beaten into the batter. The result, baked under extreme difficulties, was the big cake, containing over 850 cubic feet of the goody.

But the thirty thousand guests had filled themselves on roast beef and vegetables and it was impossible for them to eat all the cake, although it would have been possible for them to do so had they all been hungry. Obviously, so much cake could not be allowed to go to waste. So the remainder of it was cut up and distributed in nearby villages to the various needy families, who made short work of it.

VICTOR HUGO IN OLD AGE

In His Reminiscences Saint-Saens Tells of Colossal Intellect Affected by the Years.

Saint-Saens, the great composer, in his "Musical Memories" has some interesting reminiscences of Victor Hugo, who was an old man when he knew him, but who seemed "rather like an ageless and immortal being whom time could never touch."

"Time, alas! goes on, and that fine intellect which had ever been unclouded began to give signs of aberration. One day he said to an Italian delegation, 'The French are Italians; the Italians are French. French and Italians ought to go to Africa together and found the United States of Europe.'

"Victor Hugo's credulity was astonishing in a man of such colossal genius. Hearing that the remains of Voltaire and Rousseau had been exhumed and desecrated, he wrote a wonderful account of it. When the coffins were opened, the two great men were peacefully sleeping their last sleep.

"He believed in the most incredible things, as the 'Man in the Iron Mask,' the twin brother of Louis XIV; in the octopus that has no mouth and feeds itself through its arms, and in the reality of the Japanese sirens which the Japanese were said to make out of an ape and a fish. He had some excuse for the sirens, as the Académie des Sciences believed in them for a short time."—Chicago American.

Children Hold Future of Music.

The future of music as an instrument of culture lies with the children of the people. Nowhere but in the elementary schools can they be reached. Colleges of music are necessary to train the professional, but the education committees of the great towns have the largely neglected opportunity of making the rising generation a music-loving public. The innate faculty of appreciation is there, and is commonly diffused among scholars of the most essentially industrial areas. It only needs direction and cultivation, for one of the greatest pleasures to be added to the amenities of town life, pleasures at present so lamentably few. The main idea is to teach the children how to appreciate and enjoy good music, how to become intelligent listeners, rather than to become performers themselves.—Exchange.

Romans Disapproved of Dancing.

Of all the amusements that we indulge in nowadays, perhaps dancing is the oldest. Dancing seems to be one of man's primitive instincts. The Greeks were, perhaps, the greatest dancers there have ever been. Some of them held that the destiny of nations depended on the rigorous attention given to dancing. The Spartans made dancing necessary as a gymnastic exercise; but the Romans disapproved of it. "No one dances sober unless he chances to be mad," said one of them. And they all considered it was disgraceful for a free citizen to dance, unless it were at a religious festival. The early Christians practiced choral dances, although St. Augustine is said to have objected. He certainly said: "It is better to dig than dance."

Arabia.

Arabia is a peninsula in the southwest of the Asiatic continent, forming the connecting link between Asia and Africa, lying between the Persian gulf and the Gulf of Oman on the east and the Red sea on the west, the two continents being united at the Isthmus of Suez. Arabia is divided into many kingdoms and principalities, each of which has its own capital, as follows: The kingdom of Hejaz, with Mecca as its capital; the emirate of Nejd and Hasa, with Riyadh as capital; the principality of Kowelt, with Kowelt as capital; the sultanate of Oman, with Muscat as capital; the emirate of Jabel Shammer, with Hail as capital; the emirate of Asir, with Eborah as capital, and the imamate of Yemen, with Saria as capital.
